

Photo of the Week: The Snow-Capped Andes

Posted At : November 22, 2013 2:15 PM | Posted By : Dipika Chawla

Related Categories: TOPS, adventure tourism, Peru, ecotourism, sustainable tourism

The Andes Mountains form some of the most beautiful natural scenery in South America. The larger-than-life landscapes will leave you in awe, whether you're exploring on foot or on horseback. Where this picture was taken, in Peru, temperatures will range from a mild 65 degrees Fahrenheit in the lowest valleys to a frigid 32 degrees among the snow-dusted peaks.

This photo was taken on a tour with Condor Travel, a member of Tour Operators Promoting Sustainability (TOPS).