

Photo of the Week: Romance and Relaxation in Brazil

Posted At : November 7, 2012 12:51 PM | Posted By : Dipika Chawla

Related Categories: Photo of the Week, Brazil, sustainable tourism, luxury

You've heard us say that sustainable travel doesn't necessarily mean "roughing it" - if you weren't convinced before, just check out this luxurious suite at Don Ramon Spa Relaxante in Canela, Brazil. Kind of takes your breath away, doesn't it? After a long day of exploring village streets, hiking through tropical forests, and seeing waterfalls, wildlife, and panoramic canyon views, it would certainly be a relief returning to a room like this. Just imagine soaking those travel-weary bones in your private in-room Jacuzzi, and then cuddling up with your significant other in the soft canopy bed. Paradise!

An adventurous traveling couple doesn't need to rough it to explore the world's most beautiful places while having a positive impact on nature and local communities. Just browse our list of sustainable luxury accommodations in Latin America and the Caribbean - there's over 100, and counting!