What to Bring:

What should I bring? What can I leave home? Am I really going to need this? This may be some of the questions every tourist asks himself while packing. When we are going somewhere we don't know it's difficult to decide what to bring. Well, here are some recommendations Valle Dorado thinks you may find useful:

Prepare for a temperature between 55 and 85 degrees Fahrenheit (approx. 12 to 33 degrees Celsius). Costa Rica's tropical weather has sudden temperature changes, so you should consider bringing both fresh and warm clothing. Keep in mind there are a lot of bugs in the mountains as well as on the beach. Remember personal hygiene products.

We hope the next checklist can help you out:

- Hiking shoes
- Rain jacket
- Sandals, crocks, flip flops
- Hat or cap
- Jacket and Sweater
- Binoculars
- Camera (don't forget batteries)
- Extra dry clothing to wear after tours
- Sunglasses
- Personal medication
- Sun block
- Hygiene products
- Bug repellent
- Small pack to use during tours
- Bathing suit
